Check Before You Burn kicks off 14th season

Valley air officials want to remind residents to check before using their residential wood burning device

During winter, the largest source of particulate pollution comes from smoke from residential wood burning, which is most detrimental to one's health. "The Check Before You Burn program provides an opportunity for Valley residents to do their part to help reduce air pollution and improve public health throughout the San Joaquin Valley," said Seyed Sadredin, the District's executive director and air pollution control officer.

During Check Before You Burn, which runs November 1 through the end of February each year, the Air District issues a daily wood-burning status by county.

WOOD BURNING DECLARATION LEVELS

- NO BURNING FOR ALL
No one can burn at their residence.
- NO BURNING UNLESS REGISTERED
Only registered clean-burning devices allowed. Learn more at www.valleyair.org/Rule4901
- NO RESTRICTIONS, BURNING DISCOURAGED
If you must burn, use dry/seasoned wood, manufactured logs, pellets or a clean-burning device.

Outdoor wood burning devices are subject to these declarations as well.

To get the daily burn status, Valley residents may sign up for email notifications by visiting www.valleyair.org/CBYB. Daily wood-burning declarations are also available by calling 1-800-SMOG INFO (766-4463) or by downloading the free iPhone app "Valley Air" from the App Store.

In order to take advantage of additional burn days, Valley residents should register their clean EPA Phase II wood or pellet burning device with the District by visiting www.valleyair.org/CBYBregistration. Valley residents wanting to switch out older wood-burning devices for a cleaner model can take advantage of the District's Burn Cleaner grants which provide $1,000 for certified wood, pellet inserts, freestanding stoves or natural gas inserts or $2,500 for eligible low-income applicants for all devices. An additional $500 is available to all applicants for the installation costs on a natural gas device. To participate in this program please visit www.valleyair.org/burncleaner.

“Wood smoke is one of the most dangerous pollutants that you can expose yourself, your children, and your neighbors to,” said Seyed Sadredin. “Prolonged exposure to wood smoke can lead to pulmonary arterial hypertension, pulmonary heart disease, heart failure and cancer.”

There are two exceptions to wood-burning prohibitions: If the residence does not have another source of heat or if the residence does not have access to natural-gas service (even if propane is used), they are exempt from the rule and may continue to use their device. Residents may get exemption information at www.valleyair.org/Rule4901. Additionally, fireplace inserts or stoves that run solely on gas or propane, and never burn wood, continue to be exempt from the rule. Wood-burning declarations also apply to outdoor devices and chimineas.
